STADTPALAIS – MUSEUM FÜR STUTTGART

Special location

Built in the year 1840, King Wilhelm's Palace (Wilhelmspalais) was the residence of King Wilhelm II of Württemberg from 1887-1918. In April 2018 it reopened as the new Stadtpalais – Museum für Stuttgart, documenting the city's future, present and past. The ground floor becomes Stuttgart's "extended living-room" – with a lecture hall for 120 persons. The hall and foyer offer space for lectures, discussions, presentations, celebrations and other events.
